Blodcancerförbundet

Blodcancerförbundet exists for those affected by blood cancer or other serious blood disease, relatives and staff in hematology. The association is a non-profit nationwide patient organization that is a member of the interest-political umbrella organizations Funktionsrätt Sverige och Nätverket mot cancer. We see ourselves as the "voice of those affected by blood cancer" and work actively, committedly and long-term to contribute to a better everyday life for the country's blood and blood cancer victims.

We have supported this group since 2021.

During 2021:

- GSK provided a funding of 103 531 SEK for the project: "Dagens forskning, morgondagens behandling".

Blodcancerförbundet, GSK and several other companies (AbbVie, Amgen, BMS, Jansen, Pfizer, Roche, Sanofi) have identified the problems surrounding patients' access to new effective blood cancer treatments, blood cancer patients' access to clinical trials and the lack of patient influence at system level in HTA issues. Together, the parties wish to carry out a campaign in the autumn of 2021 and the spring of 2022 under the name "Dagens Forskning - Morgondagens Behandling" to address these problems and show possible solutions.

The campaign consists of several different parts such as a survey of regional and national politicians regarding blood cancer, production of a fact report on blood cancer, creation of films aimed at politicians, decision makers and the general public to increase knowledge about blood cancer, show the importance of clinical trials and why access to new drugs is important. We will also arrange dialogue meetings and roundtable discussions with politicians both nationally and regionally, as well as a seminar under the Folkhälsodalen.

Planning meetings will be held continuously between the Blodcancerförbundet, the companies, and the external supplier.

- GSK provided a funding of 3600 SEK for the project: "The project's objective is: to give people working at GSK insight about blood cancer diseases."

The project's objective is: to give people working at GSK insight about blood cancer diseases. GSK is active in the field of multiple myeloma and this talk is in line with GSK's swim lane "Trust" which will give people working at GSK insight of the importance working with hematology. Duration will be 1-hour virtual meeting, the 11th of March 2021 at a "Lunch and Learn meeting" for GSK Pharma Solna.

The project will consist of a presentation with information about what
